

Level 3 Emergency First Aid at Work (Part-Time)

The Health & Safety (First Aid) Regulations 1981 require all employers to make arrangements to ensure their employees receive immediate attention if they are injured or taken ill at work. This includes carrying out risk assessments, appointing a suitable amount of first aiders and providing appropriate first aid training.

This course gives learners the skills and confidence to respond to a range of accidents and first aid emergencies that could occur in the workplace.
